NEW HORIZON COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

EVENT NAME: TRITECHX
Organized by Department of MCA and FOSS Club

DATE: 27th June 2025

VENUE: MCA Lab

BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF THE EVENT:

The "TRITECHX" event, organized by the FOSS Club under the Department of Master of Computer Applications, was a dynamic and engaging technical event aimed at bringing out the best in programming, creativity, and real-time problem-solving among students. Held on Thursday, 27th June 2025, at the MCA Lab, the event created a competitive yet collaborative environment that encouraged participants to showcase their technical expertise and innovative thinking.

The event was a blend of excitement, learning, and hands-on application of knowledge. Students from different semesters actively participated, demonstrating a strong enthusiasm for coding, technology, and AI-driven development. The atmosphere was charged with energy and a spirit of healthy competition, reflecting the growing passion for open-source tools and modern software practices within the student community.

TRITECHX was not just a test of technical skills but also a celebration of teamwork, quick thinking, and adaptability. The event successfully provided a platform for students to challenge themselves, learn from one another, and gain exposure to industry-relevant problem-solving approaches. Faculty members and student coordinators worked together seamlessly to ensure smooth execution, making TRITECHX a memorable and impactful experience for all involved.

ROUND HIGHLIGHTS

Round 01: SnippetStorm

It challenged participants to identify bugs, correct errors, and complete partially written code. This round assessed not only technical knowledge but also logical reasoning and real-time problem-solving under pressure.

Round 02: Prompt & Deploy

It took the challenge a step further by inviting participants to harness the power of AI tools. In this round, contestants were required to craft effective prompts and build functional websites using AI assistance. It focused on creativity, prompt engineering, and rapid deployment skills—traits essential for today's tech landscape.
